Million Nazis Give Up

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, May 2 (AP)—All German land, sea and air forces in Italy and southern and western Austria—estimated at nearly 1,000,000 troops—were surrendered unconditionally to the Allies today by their commander, with hostilities ordered to cease at noon (8 a. m., E. W. T.). The capitulation, signed in the presence of Allied officers including Russian, ended more than 1½ years of the bloody Italian campaign, and permits the Allies to advance unopposed to within 10 miles of Hitler's retreat at Berchtesgaden in Austria. The surrender document was signed Sunday afternoon at Caserta by representatives of Col.-Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel, German commander-in-chief in the southwest, and of Obergruppenfuehrer Karl Wolff, supreme commander of the SS and police in Italy.

Field Marshal Sir Harold L. Alexander, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, announced the mass surrender, and in an order of the day to his troops declared "you have won a victory which has ended in the complete and utter rout of the German armed forces in the Mediterranean" and freed Italy.

The surrender exposed the flank of Col. Gen. von Lehr, German commander in the Trieste area. British and Yugoslav troops already have linked at the head of the Adriatic northwest of Trieste. At least 24 Allied divisions in Italy are freed for other duties.

Von Vietinghoff-Scheel's command includes all northern Italy to the Isonzo river in the northeast, and the Austrian provinces of Vonarlberg, Tyrol, Salzburg, and portions of Corinthia and Styria.

"The enemy's total forces, including combat and rear echelon troops surrendered to the Allies, are estimated to number nearly 1,000,000 men," Alexander announced.

"Fighting troops include remnants of 22 German and six Italian Fascist divisions."

The following terms were imposed in the surrender ending in Italy:

1—Unconditional surrender by Von Vietinghoff-Scheel's command of all land, sea and air forces to Gen. Alexander.

2—Cessation of all hostilities on land, sea and in the air by enemy forces at 12 noon, GMT.

3—Immediate immobilization and disarmament of enemy forces.

4—Obligation on the part of the German commander-in-chief to carry out any further orders issued by Gen. Alexander, the Allied supreme commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean.

5—Disobedience of the orders or failure to comply with them to be dealt with in accordance with the accepted laws and usages of war.

"The instrument of surrender stipulates that it is independent of, without prejudice to, and will be superseded by any general instrument of surrender imposed by or on behalf of the United Nations and applicable to Germany and the German armed forces as a

Capture Rundstedt

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—British troops driving swiftly in a breakthrough north of the Elbe river came within five miles today of cutting off Denmark and Schleswig Holstein. German troops fled madly toward Denmark through the shell-raked corridor near Luebeck, trying to escape both the British and the Russians.

In the south, the Texas (36th) Division of the Seventh Army captured Field Marshal von Rundstedt.

The Seventh was fighting through the Alpine passes within 10 miles of the Austrian Tyrol capital of Innsbruck and a dozen miles of the Brenner Pass, with 100 miles of snowcapped Alps between Lt. Gen. Patch's Army and the Allies driving up from Italy.

Gen. Patton's Third Army moved within 30 miles of Salzburg and 44 of Berchtesgaden in the area of Braunau where Hitler was born. His tanks closed within 18 miles of Linz and less than 40 of the Russians at Amstettin. A junction will cut the southern redoubt away from Czechoslovakia where the Nazis have their last heavy industries.

In the north, the British bypassed Hamburg and captured Stade, 78 miles south of the border of Denmark, which some reports to Stockholm said the Germans were abandoning.

Supreme headquarters announced the capture in April of a million and a half Germans, including 150 generals and admirals.

Rundstedt was perhaps the ablest strategist in the German army. His were the victories in the 1940 campaign in France. His armies showed best in the opening drive against Russia. And it was Rundstedt who was the architect of the Ardennes offensive last Christmas which carried to within three miles of the Meuse and menaced Liege and Antwerp in the last serious German attempt in the west to stave off defeat.

Official announcement of Von Rundstedt's capture said:

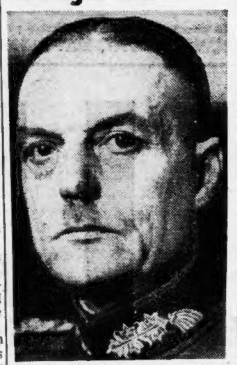
"Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt was captured by the 141st Regiment of the 36th Division of the Seventh Army, commanded by Col. Charles Owens. With von Rundstedt were his son and aide, Lt. Hans Gerd von Rundstedt, a driver and a medical aid man.

"Von Rundstedt was in retirement and taking treatment at Bad Toelz. He was living in a house that was part of a hospital.

"At 22 o'clock (10 p. m.) on May 1, von Rundstedt and his wife and son had finished dining and at that time they expected the Americans in the morning. They saw an American tank approaching and its commander, Lt. Joseph Burke of Company A, 141st Regiment, took his prisoner. It was Burke's first combat assignment since receiving his battlefield commission three weeks ago.

"Von Runstedt said he last saw Hitler alive March 12."

'Senseless To Fight On'



MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY, May 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, former German commander on the Western Front who is now a prisoner of the Allies, declared today that it was senseless for Germany to fight any longer.

Reds Hacking Into Spot Where Hitler Met Death

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—The German garrison of Berlin, compressed into the narrow government quarter, has been chopped up into "separate groups," the Nazi command said today and it appeared the fight for the German capital was near its end.

Russian troops beat in on Hitler's reichschancellery, and a Paris broadcast said without confirmation the Red Army flag already flies from the building—by German account the scene of Hitler's death.

The Hamburg radio said Russians smashed wedges into the last Nazi pocket from the south, north and east, carrying deep into the Wilhelmstrasse, the Friedrichstrasse railway station, and the old town sector on the east.

The German communique said other Russians were striking east on an 85-mile front from Rostock to Neuruppin, 35 miles northwest of Berlin, and indicated the Soviets were very near the Baltic port of Rostock.

A Pravda war correspondent declared trapped Nazis in the Tiergarten area had made another concentrated effort to break out through sewers and tunnels, but were repulsed.

The chancellery had been under mortar and howitzer fire for three days and four nights, Moscow dispatches said.

German positions in this crumbling heart of Berlin are chaotic, Pravda said, and Russians are closing in step by step in heavy fighting. German planes again last night parachuted in supplies, and the Germans do not lack for ammunition, the front reporters said.

During yesterday 8000 Germans were killed in the capital, raising the total Nazis killed and captured to 87,500 in five days.

Marshal Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army, continuing its drive of 20 miles a day across Northern Germany, captured the Baltic port of Stralsund, terminus for the main rail ferry to Malmoe, Sweden, and drove within 23 miles of Rostock. These forces were 63 miles from Field Marshal Montgomery's British on the lower Elbe.

BULLETIN

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Rostock on the Baltic was captured today by the Red Army, Marshal Stalin announced today.

LONDON, May (AP)—Marshal Stalin announced tonight that more than 120,000 Germans had been killed or captured after the encirclement of the German Ninth Army southeast of Berlin since April 24.

In Czechoslovakia two Soviet armies cleared the Vah river valley in Moravia and Slovakia and converged on Olmuetz (Olomouc), great Moravian rail center.

Gen. Yeremenko's Fourth Ukrainian mountain troops had linked with Marshal Malinovsky's Second Ukrainians in the Vah valley after capture of Zilina, Carpathian stronghold.

About 21 miles south of Berlin, Marshal Konev's First Ukrainian Army split an enemy group encircled in forest country near Luckenwalde. One Russian unit alone killed 4000 Nazis in the area yesterday.

Marshal Zhukov's First White Russians seized the 13-way communications city of Brandenburg, 22 miles west of Berlin and capital of Berlin's own Brandenburg Province.

RAF KO'S 1207 Vehicles in 2 Days

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—RAF planes destroyed or damaged 1207 German vehicles on the jammed roads between Berlin and Luebeck yesterday and today. Pilots reported huge concentrations of Nazi transport fleeing northwest from the Russians.

The 932 German vehicles knocked out yesterday gave the RAF its biggest day since the Falais Gap massacre last summer. The fighters also destroyed or damaged 33 German planes in the air and on the ground. Before noon today the RAF had destroyed or damaged 275 more enemy vehicles.

For the second day U. S. Eighth Air Force Flying Fortresses dropped approximately 800 tons of food to civilians in the Netherlands, bringing to 3450 tons the amount delivered by air since Sunday.

President Cables Allied Chiefs in Italy

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—President Truman today announced the unconditional surrender of German forces in Italy and said:

"The Allied armies in Italy have won the unconditional surrender of German forces on the first European soil to which from the west we carried our arms and our determination.

"The collapse of military tyranny in Italy, however, is no victory in Italy alone, but a part of the general triumph we are expectantly awaiting on the whole continent of Europe. Only folly and chaos can now delay the general capitulation everywhere of the German armies.

"I have dispatched congratulatory messages to the Allied and American officers who led our forces to complete defeat of the Germans in Italy. They deserve our praise for the victory. We have the right to be proud of the success of our armies.

"Let Japan as well as Germany understand the meaning of these events. Unless they are lost in fanaticism and are determined upon suicide they must recognize the meaning of the increasingly swifter moving power now ready for the capitulation or the destruction of the so recently arrogant enemies of mankind."

Japan Itself Soon to Face Invasion

By Associated Press

Japan itself will be invaded soon, a ranking American general indicated today, as British paratroopers and seaborne assault waves trapped the Jap garrison at Rangoon in the second Allied invasion in two days.

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commanding general of Army forces in Pacific ocean areas, said the Pacific war was entering a new phase in which a major assault will soon be launched on the Japanese empire.

His unamplified remarks had special significance since it was made at his Honolulu headquarters immediately on return from a conference in Manila with Gen. MacArthur.

Other American commanders disclosed half the original Jap garrison on Okinawa, estimated at 60,000 men, had been killed or wounded, and land-based naval planes are daily patrolling waters up to the gates of Tokyo.

Yanks closed in for the battle of Davao in the Philippines as British armored columns about 35 miles north of Rangoon set the stage for reconquest of Singapore.

On the seaway to Singapore the East Indies fleet, including the French battleship Richelieu, bombarded Cap Nicobar island and Port Blair in the Adaman group for the second day.

Official silence cloaked progress of yesterday's invasion of Borneo by 5000 tank-led Australians. No American troops are known to be taking part in the assault at Linkas on Tarakan, miniature island off the northeast coast of Borneo.

The U. S. 24th Division rolled 11 miles up a Mindanao coastal highway to within six miles of Davao, capturing one airstrip and reaching the edge of a second.

On northern Luzon, the 25th Division drove a salient through the enemy's Caraballo mountain defenses.

Franco Bars Laval, Deat

MADRID, May 2 (AP)—A German plane bearing Pierre Laval, Marcel Deat and the Vichy education minister, Abel Bonnard, landed at Barcelona today and was ordered personally by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to leave Spain immediately.

Laval, however, refused to leave and will be interned.

Franco acted after representations from the United States embassy. He instructed Spanish aviation authorities to allow the Frenchmen just enough gasoline to take their craft to the nearest frontier.

An unidentified woman believed to be Laval's wife was authorized to remain in Spain "on humanitarian grounds."

Franco ordered all airdromes in Spain to prevent by force if necessary any second landing by Laval and his companions.

Gen. Ike's Official Statement on Hitler

By KINGSBURY SMITH

PARIS, May 2 (INS)—An official admission from Heinrich Himmler, Nazi minister of the interior, that Germany is "finished" was disclosed by Gen. Eisenhower in an authorized statement today. Himmler, Gestapo chief, who apparently tried to implant himself as Hitler's successor, made his admission to Count Folke Bernadotte, chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, in the course of a conference at Luebeck, Germany, Gen. Eisenhower's statement said.

The statement, issued as "authorized by the supreme commander," made no mention of any peace overture having been made by Himmler.

Text of Gen. Eisenhower's authorized statement:

"Adm. Doenitz has stated in his broadcast on the night of May 1 that Hitler met a hero's death and that he, Adm. Doentiz, was nominated by Hitler before his death as his successor both as Reich chancellor and as supreme commander of the Wehrmacht.

"In virtue of this Adm. Doenitz claims that the allegiance of the German army is now transferred from Adolf Hitler to him.

"In view of these assertions by Adm. Doenitz the following information is made public:

One meeting took place at Luebeck at 1 o'clock on the morning of April 24 between Count (Folke) Bernadotte of the International Red Cross and Reichsfuehrer Heinrich Himmler. At that meeting Himmler admitted Hitler was so ill that he might already be dead.

"At any rate he could not be expected to live more than two days longer.

"Gen. Schillenberger, who was also present, added that Hitler was suffering from a brain hemorrhage.

"Adm. Doenitz's statement, therefore, that Hitler met a hero's death at his post is in contradiction with the facts given by Himmler and Schillenberger.

"In conclusion it must be stressed that the attempt by Adm. Doenitz both in his statement to the German people and his order of the day to the Wehrmacht to drive a wedge between the British and Americans on the one side and the Russians on the other will be completely ineffective as the many previous efforts which have been made.

"Constant contact is being maintained not only between the three governments but between this headquarters and the headquarters of the Soviet Army and nothing which either Admiral Doenitz or Himmler may say or do can change in any way the agreed operations of the Allied Armies."

Adm. Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the German fleet, announced over the Hamburg radio yesterday Hitler had died at his "command post"

Doenitz said Germany would continue its fight against Bolshevism and would remain at war with the United States and Great Britain so long as they opposed the Nazis' so-called "crusade" against Communism.

Gen. Eisenhower's statement was clearly designed to shatter at its inception any Nazi myth that Hitler actually went to his death while leading his troops in battle.

Von Ribbentrop Fired In Doenitz's First Move

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz moved swiftly today in his role of successor to Hitler to shake up the Nazi military and diplomatic fronts in efforts apparently directed toward a last-ditch fight in Norway.

However, 15 hours after the Hamburg radio had announced the death of Hitler not a single top-ranking Nazi party man and only one commander had come forth to pledge allegiance to Doenitz as Fuehrer.

One of the first acts of Doenitz was to dismiss Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and replace him with Count Lutz Schwerin-Krosigk, finance minister in the Franz von Papen and Von Schleicher cabinets, which immediately preceded Hitler's rise to power.

The Junker Schwerin-Krosigk, a veteran politician, is regarded as a conservative.

He was educated at Lausanne, Oxford and Halle universities, and served as counsellor in the Reichs ministry of finance from 1924 to 1929 and then as head of the budget department from 1929 to 1932.

He served as finance minister in the first Hitler cabinet.

Gen. Franz Boehme, army commander-in-chief in Norway, broadcast an order of the day over the Oslo radio, pledging allegiance to Doenitz and calling on German forces in the north to fight on as a "fanatic community."

Simultaneously, Norwegian officials in London reported Doenitz had fired Adm. Otto Ciliax, German naval chieftain in Norway since March, 1943, because Ciliax allegedly favored capitulation, and had replaced him with Adm. Kranke, formerly chief of the naval staff to Gen. Boehme.

The Hamburg radio, slightly amplifying last night's announcement of Hitler's death, said the Russians had attacked Berlin's

Hess Is Told

LONDON, May 2 (INS)—Rudolph Hess, formerly Number Two man in the Nazi regime, was told today Hitler is dead but it didn't make any impression.

According to the London Evening News, Hess was informed while eating breakfast. He merely went on eating.

Late Bulletins

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—A Reuter's dispatch from 21st Army Group headquarters today said British troops had captured Luebeck on the Baltic, sealing off Denmark and splitting the German pocket in northern Germany. Wismar on the Baltic, 30 miles east of Luebeck, also was captured.

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Austria will be jointly occupied by American, Russian, British and French forces, Richard Law, minister of state, told Commons today. He said that the zones each of the Allied powers would take over already have been agreed upon.

STOCKHOLM, May 2 (AP)—Danish newspapers—illegal heretofore—were sold openly on the streets of Copenhagen today.

Hitler Blown Up by Assassin?

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—The Paris radio broadcast a report today Hitler actually was assassinated in his Berlin headquarters the night of April 21-22 after a quarrel with other leaders over continuation of the war.

The broadcast quoted the newspaper Paris Presse, which attributed the report to "well-informed quarters."

On April 21, the broadcast said, Hitler presided over a war council attended by Field Marshals Albert Kesselring, Ernest von Busch and Ferdinand Schoerner, and Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian and Gen. Fitzler, as well as by Heinrich Himmler, Hermann Goering and Paul Joseph Goebbels.

The broadcast said "the atmosphere became so tense that when Kesselring, Von Busch, Himmler and Goering were invited to return alone the next day they feared they would share the fate of those who opposed Hitler in July, 1944. During the night, only a few hours before the second meeting was to have taken place, an explosion of terrific violence took place in Hitler's private apartments. He and the entire guards corps there were killed."

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2 (AP)—An anonymous phrase-maker today suggested the following slogan be adopted by the U. S., Britain and Russia: "Let's dunk Doenitz."

Duce's Autopsy Disproves Cancer

MILAN, May 2 (AP)—An autopsy on slain Benito Mussolini showed he was not suffering from ulcers, cancer or any of the other ailments he was reported to have had in recent years. The former dictator was executed by Italian Partisans.

The autopsy also showed that only two-thirds of Mussolini's brain remained after the beating his body took.

Big Powers' Veto Right Faces Conference Fight

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2 (AP)—The United Nations Conference today appeared safely past its worst obstacles to success in creating a world security organization. But several major arguments still lie ahead.

The Dumbarton Oaks proposal that veto controls be placed in the hands of the great powers on the inner security council already is a subject of both attack and defense.

Announcement of 16 United States amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks plan is due in the next day or so.

They are expected to cover such points as guarantees of justice in enforcement of peace, provision for revising the proposed security organization charter as future needs may indicate, and provision for allowing the security council to recommend treaty changes when deemed necessary to help preserve peace.

One of the big questions awaiting an answer is how such regional organizations as the inter-American system worked out at Mexico City are to be fitted into the proposed United Nations system.

Both United States and Latin American groups have been seeking a formula which would allow them freedom of action in putting down regional breaches of the peace without weakening the authority of the world security council to act to prevent war.

Truman Cuts 7 Billion From War Spending

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—President Truman today began a federal financial retrenchment drive in anticipation of V-E Day.

In separate actions, he recommended to Congress a total of $7,445,369,000 be withdrawn from war program funds already appropriated or projected.

The chief executive:

Urged Congress to cut more than $7,000,000,000 from current appropriations and contract authorizations for Maritime Commission shipbuilding.

Recommended a slash of more than $80,000,000 in the 1946 budget estimates of eight agencies for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Abolished the Office of Civilian Defense and withdrew its proposed $369,000 budget for the coming year. Volunteer protection workers were urged to continue on the job.

Other agencies affected include Office of War Information, War Production Board, Office of Censorship, Office o Defense Transportation, Petroleum Administration for War, Federal Security Agency, War Manpower Commission and Office of Scientific Research and Development.

Tobin Dissolves Safety Committee

The Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety has been ordered dissolved by Gov. Tobin, it was announced today by his executive secretary, John M. Deeley.

At the same time, it was announced that the committee has $300,000 in unexpended appropriations as well as $130,000 worth of motor trucks, medical supplies, bedding, laboratory and other equipment.

Medford Plans V-E Day Program

Plans for a civic observance of V-E Day in Medford were announced today by Mayor Walter E. Lawrence.

Members of the clergy, representatives of various civic and patriotic organizations and the general public will take part in the program, to be held in the Chevalier Memorial Auditorium in Forest st. at 8 p. m. on the day victory in Europe is announced officially.

Oil Heater Fumes Kill Family of 3

WORCESTER, May 2 (AP)—Carbon monoxide gas from a combination oil and gas water heater snuffed out the lives of a family of three found dead here this afternoon.

Police said the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. McDonald and their son, Francis, Jr., 5, of Grove st., occurred Monday night or yesterday morning.

Shoup Ouster From Hub OPA Sought in Senate

WASHINGTON, May 2 (INS)—Sen. Wilson (R.) of Iowa today demanded Eldon C. Shoup, OPA regional administrator at Boston, be "prosecuted or fired" for alleged violation of a law prohibiting government employes from high-pressuring Congress.

Wilson also said he would ask the Senate agriculture food subcommittee to make a sweeping investigation to determine how far propagandizing of Congress is carried on by government agencies.

Shoup Hears Charges But Won't Comment

Contacted at his office in the Houghton & Dutton building, Shoup said he had not heard of Sen. Wilson's accusations and asked to have them read to him. When they were read he laughed and said:

"No comment—no comment, whatever."

Jim Farley Urges Hub Port

Boston's stake in a lasting peace and in world-wide postwar prosperity lies in its seaport, former Postmaster Gen. James A. Farley declared today at a Rotary Club luncheon at Hotel Statler.

"Boston began as a great seaport and its future eminence will be as a seaport," he said. "But like every other port, it will need a vast amount of modernization to meet postwar needs."

Pointing out that America's huge industrial plants required a variety of ocean outlets, he asserted that some ports would have advantages over others and said:

"Boston is the natural outlet for a growing industry throughout New England and New York state and a large section of the Middle West. The problem of Boston is to bring its advantages as forcibly as it can to these great industrial regions. The business is there. Your problem is to get your share."

John Kennedy Pictures Molotov Carrying Ball as Tacklers Miss

Lt. John F. Kennedy, recently retired PT boat hero of the South Pacific and son of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, is covering the San Francisco United Nations conference from a GI point of view for the Boston Evening American. Before the war he authored the best seller "Why England Slept."

By LT. JOHN F. KENNEDY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2—This conference, from a distance, may have appeared so far like an international football game with Molotov carrying the ball, while Stettinius, Eden and the delegates tried to tackle him all over the field.

John F. Kennedy

Well, that part's over — at least temporarily—and they are scheduled today to get at the real work of the conference.

This will consist of trying to solve a number of more or less technical problems. They are not spectacular, it is true—but it was to solve these problems that the delegates came from far away.

One deals with what part a world court should play in any world organization. I propose to discuss it here, not because it is necessarily the most important problem before the conference, but because it is a problem typical of many others that are about to be discussed.

In April of this year, the Big Five met in Washington to make some definite proposals.

One of the big questions they discussed was whether the world court should be a carry-over from the world court set up after the last war, or whether it should be a new one. They decided that because the old one had a good record—though limited—this new one would be founded on the basis of the old one.

Other legal matters they couldn't decide upon were tabled for final consideration at the conference here.

For the first seven days in San Francisco there has been so much jockeying for position that the discussion has been delayed. But now that the smoke has cleared, they begin discussions today.

Nearly all of the delegates here are experts in a particular field, such as labor, foreign policy and law. These delegates are divided into different commissions to discuss the problems they are specialists in. As we were discussing the legal phase let's look at that.

All the legal experts from the 46 United Nations are to meet in a body known as a commission. They are then divided into two committees, one to study how the court is to be set up—where it will be, who will pick the judges, what connection it will have with the other departments of the security organization, and other questions.

The other committee will take up legal questions, such as the kind to be brought before the court, and how the court shall enforce its decisions.

The commission, after making its decisions, will submit the final proposals for the world court and the legal code that goes with it, to the whole conference.

Romeo-Juliet Pair Divorced

The Romeo and Juliet marriage of Joseph P. Mulligan, 17, of Somerville, and his 18-year-old wife, Mary Anne, ended today in a divorce in Middlesex Probate Court, the scene a year ago of a spectacular battle by the wife for "custody" of her husband.

Judge George Poland granted the husband an uncontested decree after he testified his wife was cruel and abusive. He said she was bigger than he was and struck him several times. Custody of a 6-months-old son was granted the wife.

The couple eloped in February, 1944, but on their return, the bride later charged in court, her husband's parents took him home and kept him from her.

His parents brought an annulment plea, which was denied by Judge John C. Leggat, who advised parents of both to leave the young couple alone.

Germans Hold Quisling on Job

STOCKHOLM, May 2 (AP)—Free Norwegian circles reported today the Vidkun Quisling government in Norway had resigned, but that Quisling had asked the cabinet members to remain on "until another Norwegian government is in a position to take over power."

A proclamation to this effect was sent to the Norwegian telegraph bureau, Quisling's news agency, with instructions to broadcast it from the Oslo station. The order was stopped, however, by the German Reichscommissar for Norway, a Norse source here said.

Dr. Werner Best is said to be consulting with a Swedish delegation undertaking to arrange surrender of German troops in Norway and Denmark.

The Norwegian legation cautioned that the real decision on the Nazi surrender in Norway would be made at Lillehamme, where the German commander in chief, Gen. Franz Boehme, has his headquarters.

A Swedish foreign office spokesman said since the ascension of Doenitz "no one in this country knows what will happen."

32 Liberated in Philippines On Way to Bay State Homes

Thirty-two Bay Staters arrived at Los Angeles today, part of a group of 2500 American, British and Canadian evacuees from the Philippines.

State Department officials said, according to an Associated Press dispatch, that because of the large numbers of evacuees and the shortness of time, it had been impossible to notify next of kin of the United States passengers of the impending arrival.

Interested persons were therefore urged to consult the nearest chapter of the American Red Cross for assistance and guidance in contacting passengers.

Among the Bay State evacuees were Brennan, Agnes M., Roxbury; Dyer, Althea C., Jane and Harland L., Natick; Duffy, Ann, Fall River; Fletcher, Donald, Cambridge; Grey, Ruth, Beverly; Hyland, Walter F., E. Boston; Klar, Minerva, Josephine, Frank, Mary L. and Helen E., Lynn; Mock, Charles G. and Louise B., West Falmouth; McGrath, Florence L. and Evelyn, Boston; Parquette, William S. and Rose T., Cambridge; Reyes, Jose, Francina, Paul and Robin, Cambridge; Ursula, Mother Mary, Arlington Heights; White, Sevy M., Doris, Walter, Jr., and Wilbert, Everett; Walker, Barbara, Wayland; Winship, S. Two-year-old George E. White, Jr., of Orchard st., Malden, is not much taller than the under side of a toadstool but he has the makings of an upstanding citizen.

He and his mother were walking in Maplewood va., Malden, this morning, George holding his arm straight up in order to establish contact with his mother's hand, and scanning the pavement for whatever strange and wonderful things it might offer, when he let out a yell so shrill it lifted the cap off his head.

There was some fascinating material at his feet. He put the clutch on it. It consisted of ration books and tokens belonging to Annie O. Johnson and Muriel J. Jansky of Salem st., Malden. George thought the tokens were wonderful. His mother explained they were, indeed.

George avowed the thing to do with them, then, was to give them back, right away.

"'Cause it would be awful not to eat," he said.

George summed up a lot.

So honest George and his mother brought the books to the office of the Boston Evening American and turned them over to the editor.

Somerville Boy Killed by Train

Three-year-old John Martin of Boston ave., Somerville, was instantly killed this afternoon when struck by a Lowell to Boston train of the Boston and Maine Railroad.

Railroad officials said the boy was playing on the side of the tracks near the Cedar st. bridge with several companions and, when the train was 50 feet away, attempted to dash across the tracks but stumbled and fell.

Chinese Red Leader Demands Coalition

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—New demands for immediate formation of a coalition government in China have been voiced by Mao Tze-Tung, Chinese Communist leader, the Communist radio station at Yenan declared today.

Mao declared the Chungking government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is "upholding the reactionary policy of dictatorship and civil war."

Sex Slayer of Maine Girl, 7, Kills Self in Cell

AUGUSTA, Me., May 2—Ernest Michaud, who weighed 190 pounds and was 36, and who confessed he violated 7-year-old Betty McArthur, then threw her in a pond, tore a piece of metal from a bedspring in his cell this morning and slashed his throat. He died in Augusta General Hospital several hours later.

It was the third time tragedy had struck in the McArthur household. Donald had died overseas. Robert had died before him, back in the days of the CCC camps. The death of their little sister aroused Maine police authorities to the point where conferences were being held to ask for more restrictive legislation regarding sex criminals.

Michaud did not wait for the law's cold objectivity.

His self-mutilation was discovered by another prisoner in the Kennebec County jail, who screamed for help. His cries were heard by Mrs. Kay Watts, wife of the high sheriff, Charles A. Watts. Their home is in the jail.

She saw Michaud lying on the floor. Still in his hand was the piece of bedspring he had used to end his life and his own bewilderment at what, in a confession earlier, he had called his "urges." Michaud had served two sentences for moral offenses.

Michaud was arrested a few hours after Betty McArthur vanished yesterday. His reputation indicated he might be the man. Then he took police to Tolman pond, six miles from Augusta, and showed them where he had thrown the child's body.

State Trooper Roland Faulkner waded out in three feet of water and found her.

Before Michaud made his confession, and after Mrs. Hall McArthur, the child's mother, had heard of his arrest, she said, "Why do they let men like that wander around?"

His confession read:

"I seen the girl go to school two or three mornings a week. Sometimes she had her brothers with her, and sometimes she was alone. Sometimes I'd stop and watch her. This morning I got near the school and when she came near the car I called to her and told her to get in and I'd drive her to school.

"I swung left at Churchill rd. The school is on the right. I kept going. She started to yell. I gave her a whack across the face. She didn't say any more, so I guess that stopped her. . . .

"On Mud Hill rd. I stopped. I don't know whether she was conscious or not. I guess she was about half and half . . . didn't make any move. I figured she had passed out.

"After this, I gave her a whack for good measure. I don't remember whether I used my hand or my fist. I don't know where I hit her. Then I took her out of the car, and when I seen nobody was around I just threw her in the pond.

"That's all. When I saw you police fellows coming, I knew what you were coming for."

Michaud had brought tragedy to three homes, in each case attacking a little girl. He had been released from prison only a few months ago. His arrest perhaps saved him from the violence of many fathers here, for after 7-year-old Betty McArthur disappeared several hundred men were organized to search for her.

He was arrested at 1:15 this morning. He confessed at 3:30. He killed himself after five hours of thinking it over.

Even then, a searching party, estimated at more than 600 by Police Chief Vernard Dudley, was trudging through woods in search of the girl. The searchers were not told of Michaud's confession until he had taken police to the spot where the child's body was recovered.

When he had been lodged within the security of a county jail cell, the hunt was called off.

Michaud's reputation caught up with him. It was known even to children whose parents wouldn't have thought of discussing him before them.

In 1939 Michaud was convicted of an assault to commit indecent liberties. He was given two years. In 1942 he was given two years on the same charge, and was released June 16, 1944.

The rapidity of his arrest was the result of that knowledge among children. When he took Betty McArthur into his automobile it was noticed by three schoolboys. They were suspicious. One of them jotted down the registration of his automobile. The young detectives were Cecil Fish, 9; Gerald Parke, 11, and Donald Tobey, 9.

Dr. Roland McKay, medical examiner, had planned to perform an autopsy on the 7-year-old's body today.

One policeman, a veteran, said he "didn't think there was much sense in it but it was the law."

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 2 (AP)—The reason motorists in Oklahoma City haven't been cited for overtime parking since last Thursday is not because the police have become careless. The city is out of red tickets!

Reilly Quits, Council Rejects Rocheleau 6-3

Appointment of William Arthur Reilly, Boston fire commissioner, as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission was withdrawn today by Gov. Tobin at Reilly's request.

The Governor announced the withdrawal just before the executive council, to whom the appointment first was submitted ten weeks ago, went into its weekly session. He said Reilly had called him by telephone and requested that the appointment be withdrawn.

The council then rejected the appointment of former Worcester County Sheriff H. Oscar Rocheleau as director of the division of fisheries and game by a 6 to 3 vote. The Rocheleau appointment was first submitted at the same time as that of Reilly.

Democratic Councilors Joseph A. Clark of Fall River and John J. Sawtelle of Boston voted with the four Republican members against the Rocheleau appointment.

The Governor declared he would resubmit Rocheleau's appointment to the council next week.

He said he had no plans for an appointee to fill the post of the late Eugene C. Hultman as head of the Metropolitan District Commission.

The council voted to confirm the appointment of Ernest F. Hoftyzer, of Wellesley, advertising director of the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser, as trustee of Massachusetts State College and that of Col. Edward Roth, of Tisbury, as public administrator.

The Governor also sent the council the re-appointment of Irvin McD. Garfield as a member of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital Corporation.

Gay War Widow Waits Sentence

Pausing to do a bit of figuring, Judge Joseph E. Donovan today commented "that's pretty heavy spending" in connection with $2600 allegedly squandered by Mrs. Louise Cooke, 25, a war widow, of Canal st., North End, found guilty in municipal court on a morals charge.

Mrs. Cooke, whose husband was killed in action five months ago, was found guilty with Domenici Fugazzotto, 26, found with her at the Canal st. address. The pair were additionally charged with larceny of $40 from a Tremont st. building where Mrs. Cooke worked as an elevator operator.

Mrs. Cooke, an attractive brunette, told Judge Donovan various amounts of her husband's insurance she had spent in three months since she left Fort Worth, Tex.

The case against Mrs. Cooke was continued until tomorrow, while Fugazzotto appealed sentences totalling 13 months in addition to a six-month suspended sentence meted previously for assault and battery on his wife. He was held in $3000 bail.

Jap Hostel to House Family Groups Here

The Beacon Hill Hostel on Walnut st. for temporary lodging of Japanese-Americans coming to settle in this locality will be in full operation in about a week, Rev. Edward A. Cahill, associate director of the Unitarian service committee, who is chairman of the project, announced today.

It will be maintained for family groups who may reside there for a week or 10 days while looking for work.

It is one of the beautiful old houses on the hill. Built in 1857, it was once owned by famous Boston families such as the Lothrops, Beals and Simmons. There are huge marble fireplaces in nearly all the bedrooms, and although it became a rooming house in latter years it is still in remarkably good condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Taft, top Boston socialites, are next-door neighbors, and the house has an excellent view of the beautiful Taft garden.

Only about 20 Japanese-Americans have been arriving here each month for about a year and a half, according to Roger Clapp, relocation representative in Boston. But he added that now all restrictions have been lifted and Japanese families must move out of relocation camps by next Jan. 2. Some of the 60,000 involved will probably come to New England.

Those already here are working mostly as gardeners or secretaries and have been readily absorbed by most communities without prejudice.

The hostel, first of its kind in Boston, although the plan has been in operation in other cities, can accommodate about 25 people at a time, and will be operated by a large committee representing many charitable and church groups.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert L. Zoerheide will live there and supervise all its activities. Mr. Zoerheide is Unitarian minister to students in Greater Boston.

The group gave as its reason for its charitable gesture that it wanted to see "justice done to a large group of people who have been stigmatized because of an accident of ancestry."

House Food Plan Up to Truman

WASHINGTON, May 2 (INS) —The House food investigating committee today took direct to President Truman a nine-point program for improving the nation's food supply.

The program included a recommendation all government food agencies be co-ordinated without delay to avoid "irreparable" damage to price control by the black market.

The committee's proposal, which also was made as a report to Congress, informed Mr. Truman "there must be action."

Headed by Rep. Anderson (D.) of New Mexico, the committee has just finished a five-week investigation which took the seven-member bi-partisan group to cities throughout the nation.

"The price line is weakening," the report stated. "It must be held."

British Experts Study Food Here

While we complain of the meat shortage, two Englishmen here to study industrial food problems today declared that Great Britain's main worry now is how to feed Europe.

"Our few reserves are already being sent there," said Harry Sharp, delegate with Thomas Porter from the British National Society of Caterers to Industry.

The delegates said they were indebted for co-operation in their surveys here to John W. Stokes, president of the Massachusetts Restaurant Ass'n, and Francis A. and Andrew J. Crotty, Jr., leaders in the industrial restaurant business.

Nazis Reported Giving Up Ships

STOCKHOLM, May 2 (INS)—Unconfirmed reports reaching the Swedish capital said today that German naval forces in Denmark had begun to surrender.

According to a telephoned message from Copenhagen, German marines dismounted the guns aboard their ships in Fredericia harbor and took them ashore, afterwards surrendering to Danish authorities.

whole," Allied headquarters in Italy announced.

The surrender announcement was accompanied by this order of the day from Alexander to all Allied troops in the Mediterranean:

"After nearly two years of hard continuous fighting which started in Sicily in the ummer of 1943 you stand today as victors of the Italian campaign.

"You have won a victory which has ended in the complete and utter rout of the German armed forces in the Mediterranean. By clearing Italy of the last Nazi aggressor, you have liberated a country of over 40,000,000 people.

"Today the remnants of a once proud army has laid down their arms to you—close on a million men with all their arms, equipment and impedimenta.

"You may well be proud of this great and victorious campaign which will long live in history as one of the greatest and most successful ever waged.

"No praise is high enough for you sailors, soldiers, airmen and workers of the united forces in Italy for your magnificent triumph.

"My gratitude and my admiration is unbounded and only equalled by the pride which is mine in being your commander-in-chief."

Earlier, U. S. Fifth Army headquarters had announced the surrender of eGrman Gen. Jahn, commander of the Lombardy corps of the Ligurian army, with 2000 Germans and many Italian Fascist troops.

The surrender was signed in German and English at the immense Italian rolay castle at Caserta by the two German plenipotentaries and Lt.-Gen. W. D. Morgan, Allied headquarters chief of staff.

"After signing the document the two German plenipotentaries returned by a secret route to Von Vietinghoffscheel's headquarters in the high Alps to arrange the surrender of German and Italian Fascist forces," Allied headquarters said.

British Believe Hitler Dead, But See V-E Day Delayed

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—A British foreign office commentator accepted as a fact today the enemy report that Hitler is dead, but cast doubt on German accounts that his was a hero's death.

The foreign office took the view that it was "extremely unlikely" Hitler's death would have been announced by the Germans if it had not actually occurred, the commentator said.

He suggested Hitler might have died several days ago, recalling earlier reports that Heinrich Himmler was said to have given the information that Hitler was likely to die within 48 hours.

He added that it was well known that Hitler had been seriously ill and that his appearances in public had been growing more infrequent.

He discounted the possibility that the report of the death was a trick designed to facilitate escape in order that the Fuehrer might go underground and emerge later as a leader of a new German military movement.

The British press suggested Adm. Doenitz' emergence as the new "strong man" of the Reich had delayed—if not made impossible—any chance of a general German surrender.

"It now seems certain," said the London Star, "that surrender has receded and so has V-E Day. Doenitz is the ablest leader left. He is also the most determined last ditcher."

Waste kitchen fats make explosives. Don't throw away a drop. Take them to your meat dealer.

Von Ribbentrop

government quarter in the Reich chancellery Tuesday and, "in fighting which cost both sides heavy losses and during which the Fuehrer was killed, the Russians succeeded in deepening their breaches into the Wilhelmstrasse."

Whether top men of the inner Nazi gang—Goering, Goebbels, Himmler and Bormann—had fled, were dead or were supporting Doenitz remained a mystery.

Doenitz, represented as Hitler's choice as a successor, broadcast an order of the day pledging continuance of the war and demanding the same loyalty the Germans had given to Hitler.

Skepticism was expressed immediately over the report of the Fuehrer's death.

Moscow, in relaying the report to the Russian people over the official radio, declared flatly "the German radio statement evidently represents a new Fascist trick."

By such an announcement, said the Russians, "the German Fassists evidently hope to prepare for Hitler the possibility of disappearing from the scene and going to an underground position."

Some members of Parliament suspected a Nazi ruse. There was no comment from Prime Minister Churchill or Gen. Eisenhower.

First inkling that the dramatic news was coming was contained in a Hamburg radio broadcast at 9:43 p. m. (3:43 p. m. EWT) instructing all Germans to keep their radios tuned for an important announcement.

Music from Wagner's Goetterdaemmerung, or Twilight of the Gods, gave a hint of the news to come, for that opera, beloved by Hitler, tells of the death of the hero Siegfried.

Until 10:27 p. m. (4:27 p. m. EWT), the radio played other Wagnerian music, followed by Anton Bruckner's Seventh Symphony, written to commemorate Wagner's death.

Then came four ruffles of a drums followed by this announcement:

"It is reported from the Fuehrer's headquarters that our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, fighting to the last breath against Bolshevism, fell for Germany this afternoon in his operational headquarters in the Reichschancellery.

"On April 30 the Fuehrer appointed Grand Admiral Doenitz his successor. The grand admiral and successor of the Fuehrer now speaks to the German people."

The voice of a speaker who said he was Doenitz, continued:

"It is my first task to save Germany from destruction by the advancing Bolshevist enemy. For this aim alone the military struggle continues.

"As far and for so long as achievement of this aim is impeded by the English and the Americans, we shall be forced to carry on our defensive fight against them as well.

"Under such conditions, however, the Anglo-Americans will continue the war, not for their own peoples, but solely for the spreading of Bolshevism in Europe."

There was no mention of Gestapo Chieftain Heinrich Himmler, who had tried to surrender Germany to Great Britain and the United States but not to Russia, only to be rebuffed.

Doenitz' pointing to the struggle against Russia, however, was in line with Nazi propaganda designed to split the Allies.

Doenitz eulogized Hitler as one who has dedicated his life to Germany and a war against Bolshevism and met a hero's death. A powerful ghost voice interrupted with a shout "This is a lie!"

The tough, 53-year-old naval officer who won the admiration of the Nazis for his ruthless submarine warfare, implored the German people to continue the war.

Then the radio played Deutschland Ueber Alles, the German national anthem and the bloodthirsty Horst Wessel, Nazi party anthem.

Three minutes of silence occurred, after which Doenitz read a special order of the day to the German military services.

"For every single one of you the oath of loyalty to the Fuehrer is transferred straight to my person as the Fuehrer's appointed successor. German soldiers! Do your duty! The existence of our people is at stake!"

London's Raid Sirens Out

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—The sirens that shrieked their warnings of approaching German bombers in the days when the Luftwaffe poured death and destruction into this island fortress will be discontinued as of noon today, the ministry of home security announced.

At the same time rules which prevented use of noisemakers such as sirens and hooters were rescinded. They may be used for the celebration of V-E Day.

The government informed approximately 500,000 mothers and children evacuees they could return to London, but approximately 168,000 houses have been either destroyed or badly damaged in London, and more than 200,000 need repairs to bring them up to reasonable standard.

Spread Ash Even on Garden

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Daily Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Demonstration Gardens on Boston Common.

The change in the weather from the unusual early warm spell to last week's drop in temperature has posed a problem for victory gardeners.

Because of the warm weather, perennial crops got off to an early start. Rhubarb and asparagus seemed likely to be ready to harvest three or four weeks ahead of schedule. Now gardeners are wondering how they can get them started again.

Heat is the only thing that will bring them along, but now is a good time to apply a top dressing of complete commercial fertilizer.

For rhubarb, side dress along rows with complete garden fertilizer or nitrate of soda. Do not get this material on the foliage. Asparagus beds can be top-dressed by spreading complete fertilizer over the whole bed broadcast. Use about three pounds per 1000 square feet.

Of late, I have had a number of soil samples where gardeners have spots in the garden that are alkaline and in tracing the trouble it goes back to an accumulation of wood ashes. If you burn brush or any other material in any quantity be sure to spread the ash residue evenly over the garden. Wood ashes are excellent as a source of lime and potash, but can cause trouble if allowed to remain in one place.

Victory Garden plots in city and community gardens are being assigned this week. It is not too late to apply for a plot. Contact your local garden committee and get started on your 1945 Victory Garden.

Bishop Kelleher Consecration Set

Headed by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, a large group of distinguished prelates from all parts of the eastern United States will attend the consecration of Rev. Louis F. Kelleher, D. D., as auxiliary bishop of Boston, at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross on June 8, it was announced today.

Rev. Dr. Kelleher, pastor of the Church of St. Catherine of Genoa, Somerville, will be consecrated by Archbishop Cushing, who a quarter century ago was a pupil of the bishop-elect, then theology professor at St. John's Seminary, Brighton.

The co-consecrators will be Archbishop Spellman and Bishop Edward F. Ryan of Burlington, Vt., former pastor of the Holy Name Church, West Roxbury, and the preacher will be Bishop Charles F. Buddy of San Diego, Cal.

Dr. Kelleher's first act following notification of his elevation to the episcopate was to visit Archbishop Cushing.

In the Armed Forces

1 Lt. Walter E. Nelson, husband of Mrs. Madelyn B. Nelson of Blackwood st., Back Bay, has been posthumously awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action. The decoration was presented to his widow by Col. George S. Beurket, commanding officer of Ft. Jay, N. Y.

George Bartlett, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson S. Bartlett of Claybrook rd., Dover, motor officer of a field artillery unit in the Pacific, has been promoted to first lieutenant.

PFC. Stephen J. Contons, son of Mrs. Victoria Contons of Vinton st., South Boston, was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism with the 10th Infantry Division in Germany.

Harry J. Pascoe of Waban ave., Waban, flight leader in a 15th AAF bomber in Italy, has been promoted to captain.

James M. Brown, son of James J. Brown of Walnut st., Brookline, was recently promoted from first lieutenant to captain in the Army Engineer Corps on duty in Panama Canal Department.

Mulcahy Returns As Deer Island Head

George F. A. Mulcahy, recently discharged as a major from the Army Air Force after three years' service, today resumed his duties as master at the Deer Island House of Correction. He was reinstated in the $4000-a-year post by Joseph P. Donohue, commissioner of penal institutions.

Before taking military leave, Mulcahy was master at Deer Island for 16 years. During his absence his post was filled by J. Paul Doyle, now state commissioner of corrections.

Some words fool you:

BARK means...

BARK means...

but BALLANTINE Ale always means...

Purity, Body, Flavor!

"BARK" is the noise made by dogs that don't bite. "Bark" is also the tough external covering of a tree. Bark, you see, is one of those confusing words that have more than one meaning.

Consider, on the other hand, the word "Ballantine." Ballantine, as just about everybody knows, always means PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR. These are the qualities symbolized by the famous 3-ring trade mark... qualities that make Ballantine America's finest. Enjoy a bottle when your day's work is done.

POWER WITHOUT JUSTICE

THE SUSPICION has long been strong, and is now confirmed from a most significant source, that many nations now participating in the San Francisco Conference are doing so without enthusiasm for it.

It is well known that Soviet Russia originally appointed a delegation to the conference headed by the Russian Ambassador to the United States, thus pointedly indicating its lack of major interest.

Only at the last minute did the Russian government assign Mr. Molotov to the mission, raising it to the "foreign minister" level.

But if it has been supposed that only Russia originally had this luke-warm interest in the Conference, there may be a wide margin of error in the supposition.

Writing in the London Daily Mail, Mr. Alastair Forbes, political commentator, recently observed that, while the decision at Yalta to hold the San Francisco Conference was "sufficiently uncontroversial to gain unanimous praise," there was a later change in attitude.

Subsequently, he said, "the holding of this conference has become a matter of fierce controversy.

"Perhaps only in the United States . . . does the meeting arouse great enthusiasm."

MR. FORBES cites several reasons for this change in attitude.

All of them have emerged from Russia's actions SINCE Yalta.

One of them was the post-Yalta revelation of Russia's demand, as Mr. Forbes comments for "powers of veto which, if accepted, will make otherwise praiseworthy proposals little more than a Dumbarton hoax on credulous, peace-loving people all over the world."

The waning of enthusiasm for the San Francisco Conference among the smaller nations as a result of this revelation was pronounced, and natural and inevitable.

But there was another and more profound reason for lowered enthusiasm, Mr. Forbes relates, and it too is of post-Yalta origin in Russia.

He points out that after the Yalta Conference the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden, told the House of Commons that a three-power agreement had been achieved under which the issue of Poland was to be resolved by a meeting of British, American and Russian ambassadors in Moscow—an explicit assurance against any UNILATERAL decision on the Polish issue by Russia alone.

"It is now clear," says Mr. Forbes, "to all impartial observers that neither the spirit nor the letter of Mr. Eden's interpretation of the Yalta resolution on Poland has been observed.

"The unilateral measures adopted by the Kremlin in Poland, and elsewhere, constitute a BREACH of the most recent three-power agreement."

Apropos of which, Mr. Forbes comments:

"Many of those who in the past have been among the most sincere apologists of the Soviet cause find themselves daily provoked by Pravda, insulted by Izvestia, and warmly abused by the sprightly 'undergraduate rag' The War and the Working Classes."

MR. FORBES concluded his appraisal of the situation regarding Poland with the following quotation from Winston Churchill which should be on the desk of every delegate to the San Francisco Conference:

"THE WHOLE HISTORY OF THE WORLD IS SUMMED UP IN THE FACT THAT WHEN NATIONS ARE STRONG THEY ARE NOT ALWAYS JUST, AND WHEN THEY WISH TO BE JUST THEY ARE OFTEN NO LONGER STRONG . . . LET US HAVE THIS BLESSED UNION OF POWER AND JUSTICE."

MAYBE THESE fellows who talk about the "good old days" have something. That is, if they go far enough back. An old-timer has sent me a menu of the Clipper Restaurant on Pacific st., San Francisco. GET IT RIGHT: Press dispatch dealing with old-time baseball players who have just been named for the baseball hall of fame makes reference to "Ed Delehanty, a pitcher for the Washington Club and the Phillies." Maybe Ed did pitch at some time in his career but he was named for the hall of fame because he was one of the hardest hitting outfielders of all time. Another reference is to "Dan Brouthers, an outfielder for Detroit." Dan Brouthers was a first baseman. Goes to show how fleeting fame is. Even in the cases of men famous enough to be named for the hall of fame.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2—The most graphic method I can think of to illustrate the position of the United Nations in this new attempt to form a league to preserve the peace is to discuss it in the familiar terms of unionism.

Westbrook Pegler

The bad nations, and we are arbitrary in our judgments on them, represent the employers. They are Germany and Japan. Italy is only semi-bad but only because Italy was incompetent and had no belly for a fight. Spain, too, is semi-bad. So, we are contemplating a union organization to make the bad nations behave.

But right away, we look about our meeting and discover that we have gangsters and racketeers in our own midst. Nevertheless, they are our gangsters and racketeers so we must be careful to gentle them. We mustn't accuse them from the floor or they might waylay us on the way home in the dark and give us a broken leg.

In fact, we have a few little items on our own conscience such as our aggressions against the Indians and our violations of treaties with them and Panama.

At any rate, our organization meeting is progressing and, like some unions, from the start we establish classes of membership. We give ourselves a select, class A membership, so that the little fellows, such as Costa Rica, Honduras and Abyssinia can't throw in together and run things. We big shots have the muscle and, frankly, we rate ourselves above those who might be compared to the Class B, or unskilled members, of the Electricians' Union.

NOW, IF WE do join we have to accept the obligation to go on strike and to picket, if a strike is called. That is, we must agree to back up any decision of the Security Council to blockade or throw rocks through the windows of any offending nation.

Actually, this rock-throwing would be war and, with us, war calls for an act of Congress, which Congress, after a few years of peace and prosperity, might be unwilling to pass.

So it is proposed that we call this armed intervention, or war, peaceful picketing. All union picketing is peaceful, of course. It is true that sometimes irresponsible enthusiasts overturn automobiles, beat up innocent citizens and destroy property, but these are acts of zealous individuals and are disavowed by the organization.

We are going to be dishonest from the jump and let us be honest about that. If one of those little rows should develop into a general war, we would have to plunge in with all our strength, with or without the approval of Congress. Probably, however, by then, Congress and the people would be all excited and the declaration of war would be only a routine matter.

NOW WE find that our Russian friends are a little suspicious of us, which only makes it even because for many years they devilled us here at home by trying to raid our membership, as you might say, and made us suspicious of them.

I refer to their Communist revolutionary movement not only in labor unions but in the government bureaus in Washington. On their part it is explained that we treated them as dirty-necks for about 15 years and so we did. A discussion of the reasons why we acted so would run away with the piece so we won't go into them now.

As in all unions, the big fellows want power and are alert always to check any move by anyone in the ruling group which might redistribute the power.

I know of no union, however, in which there are four or five true equals. Always there is a head man who keeps himself up there by trading with his council but in this new union of nations there are at least two countries, ours and Russia, which are determined to be equal at the top.

Britain seems a shade inferior because her empire is so loose-jointed and her navy has taken such a hammering, not only from the enemy but from the seas.

China obviously is included only because of her position in the war with Japan. If France is to be regarded as big muscle, that is only a complimentary rating which takes into account her knack for nuisance.

WELL, WHAT about Poland and Jugoslavia and the Balkan Republics? The analogy there is that they are suffering from discord or dual unionism, and so they are taken over by the regional authority of the big union, which is Russia.

The regional boss puts in his own people to administer them until they get straightened out—his way. That is common practice, too.

We are forgetting mutually all discreditable past performances and are all fine, peace-loving fellows who never pulled a dirty trick.

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—As a memorial to our late President, Ben Bogeaus is putting "The Four Freedoms" into immediate production. But let me say quickly that this venture is in no way a life story of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

In fact, President Roosevelt will not be pictured in any form in the production. Instead, the picture will embody the ideologies of his political faith and will be based upon his oft-expressed "Freedom of Speech," "Freedom From Want," "Freedom of Religion" and "Freedom From Fear."

Ingrid Bergman

Bogeaus is more excited about this than any other thing he has undertaken. Over the phone he told me: "In many ways it's an international undertaking portraying to the world a dramatic story of the Roosevelt principles. I can't tell you the cast, but it will have at least six top stellar names." Ben may fly back to Washington to contact the close associates of Roosevelt, who he hopes will act in an advisory capacity.

EVERYBODY HAS been rumored for the mother role in "The Yearling"—but the girl who gets it is 21-year-old Jacqueline White, a new name to you, I am sure. For two years M-G-M has been grooming Miss White, a former U.C.L.A. co-ed who was discovered by a talent scout when she appeared in the college show of "Ah, Wilderness." I wondered how a dark horse had cropped up with such a prize and discovered that it is purely on the strength of a test she made for "Ma Baxter." Quite a start for a newcomer, I'd say, playing opposite Gregory Peck in a part well touted for Ingrid Bergman or Joan Fontaine.

THE FIRST, and many people consider the best, movie ever made by Abbott and Costello was "Buck Privates." Made for nickels and dimes—it brought in millions. The boys were such a hit that it has almost been forgotten that another big factor in the success was the appearance of the Andrews Sisters singing and swinging as only they can. Now Lou Levy, manager for the girls, has the idea of "The Return of the Buck Private" with the same line up, the girls and Bud and Lou. I'll be on the surprised side if Universal doesn't grab it up.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco Stokowski has only emerged from her honeymoon hideout long enough to telephone her close friends, "Don't tell," she said, "where we are." All her trunks are still at the Beverly Hills Hotel, indicating that she didn't know about her plans to wed Leopold Stokowski when she went to Reno.

DO YOU MIND if I do a little bragging about my child this morning? She was on the Kate Smith hour Sunday and sounded swell. She has been on three or four other programs in connection with her picture, "The Enchanted Cottage." One of my friends telephoned from New York to say that the Astor has been playing to capacity, with huge crowds waiting ever since the picture opened last Friday. It's breaking records right and left and I'm nearly as happy as Charles Koerner.

VIRGINIA WEIDLER is just plain walking around in the clouds. Give her two spht seconds of your time and she'll flash a letter on you—one she prizes highly from nobody else but Col. Jimmy Stewart! Jimmy writes that he had just seen a new photograph of Virginia "and I can't believe the very glamorous young lady is the same little girl I worked with in 'Philadelphia Story'." Virginia, who is now 18, and so pretty, was just a little girl when Jimmy went into the service. You ca bet your newest Victory Bod that this is one letter Ginnywill always keep and treasure

NEW YORK, May 2 — Georgie Jessel's famous "Mom" is gravely ill . . . Friends wonder if Hannah Williams and Jack Dempsey (now overseas) intend to reconcile for the sake of the children . . . Eileen Barton, who sings with Fraaaaankie, is wearing a betrothal gem from Lester Lee, the Witmark song plugger . . . Gambler George Herrick and Indian beauty Dawn Littlefield are a constant Miami pow-wow . . . Doctors believe Joe E. Brown's daughter Mary—badly injured in that car crash—may walk by autumn . . . Eddie Bracken expects to be in uniform by May 25 . . . Many of Gotham's 52d st. spots—and places all over Second and Third aves.—ignore the 12 o'clock closing rule . . . Eleanor Niles, the blonde model who declared her love for crooner Jerry Wayne to Supreme Court reporters last week, was swooning over comic Ed Wynn only a month or so ago.

SAY, LISTEN,... YOU CAME TO SIMPLY SAY GOODBYE, BUT YOU STRETCHED IT INTO A THREE-HOUR ORATION!
NOW GET GOING, YOU OLD CACTUS OWL, BEFORE I SHAMPOO THE ALKALI OUT OF YOUR WIG WITH THIS VASE!
WAIT, I'M A-GOIN'!—HOLD YOUR FIRE, "SHOTGUN SAL" UNTIL I GET TO TH' TOP OF TH' RIDGE!
BACK TO THE BEELER BOYS
Gene Ahern

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE'S favorite sergeant is William H. Robinson. You see them in the gay spots . . . Mrs. E. M. Loew, estranged wife of the theater chain owner, is set to contest his Florida divorce action . . . Cinema song-and-dance-man George Murphy is bedded with chicken pox . . . Cpl. Tommy Farrell, Glenda's kid, is sniffing orange blossoms with pretty Frances Kass . . . One of the prettier blondes in an overseas USO musical comedy troupe is back in town, although the rest of the cast is still performing abroad.

LILY PONS, who denounced Maurice Chevalier as a collaborationist (although officially he's cleared) is even more vehement in her expressions about Benjamino Gigli . . . The Rockefeller plans for the expansion of Radio City include two legitimate theaters and a giant sports arena.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

JOHN P. MARQUAND, the celebrated Harvard ('15) graduate, who pilloried the Boston Brahmins in such novels as "The Late George Apley" and "H. M. Pulham, Esq.", needs a bit more research on his subject . . . Never since the printing press has such an excruciatingly savage job of satirizing the onetime ruling class of this, Our Fair City, been accomplished as the one performed by the girl-author of "Boston Adventure."

SHE CALLS herself Jean Stafford, and claims that she was born in California in 1915 . . . The name obviously is a writing name, because the author's high-cheek bones in the photo on the back-cover mark her as Slavic and her literate, Russian-esque writhings tab her as a lover of Fedor Dostoievsky . . . "Jean" is identified further as one who taught "two years in Massachusetts" . . . Now Mr. Marquand does a fair job when he takes pen in hand to have fun with the denizens of the Chilton Club, the Athenaeum, the Union Club and the torn-down St. Botolph (which will be replaced after V-E Day by a newsreel theater or a parking space).

But this writing gal—Miss "Stafford"—has wrought a description of the actions, the thoughs, psychoses, the habits, the hobbies, and the romances of the Brahmins which marks her as the owner of a priceless talent . . . If the "blurb" on the book's back cover tells the truth in limiting her acquaintance with Boston to a mere two years, she has a talent so far superior to the one acclaimed as belonging to Betty Smith, author of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," that comparisons are hideous . . . Unfortunately, "The Late George Apley" has skimmed the cream off word-cartoons of Boston's "ruling class" in the theater and consequently the movies . . . But what a good playsmith could do with Miss Stafford's scene in "Lucy Pride's" Louisburg Square drawing-room when the Cinderella-heroine, Sonia Marburg, meets the Boston aristocracy! The scene, in this writer's opinion, rates with the great caricatures of modern writing.

HITLER'S REPORTED death fell with a dull thump on our fair city . . . It wasn't so long ago that polls of newspaper and radio authorities conceded that the "big" story of the year would be "Hitler's death." Well, Hitler—if we believe the Hamburg radio and other sources—is dead . . . It should have evoked a general celebration . . . But nothing of the sort took place last night in the Boston night clubs or hotels . . . What should have been the downbeat for pacing the music for dancing in the streets—wasn't.

IN FACT, the news of the mustached little ex-paper-hanger's demise failed to inspire much of anything, including spirited comment . . . Some felt sorry that he died a death which might inspire misguided future millions to acclaim him a hero . . . Others felt that Adolf would be as soon forgotten, as Mussolini undoubtedly will be scorner, reviled and mourned . . . Only as good riddance. Business, none the less, picked up decidedly in the town's glitter spots . . . For a month business has been only so-so.

The mere mention of "snow" sets up quivers in certain high political quarters, and if the unpleasant word hits the headlines remember that you read it here first—as a Page One possibility of May or June . . . Washington Scene

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, May 2 — One of the most notable and also audible ladies' clubs in America, and quite conceivably the world, was an organization bearing the impressive name of "Mrs. Roosevelt's Press Conference Association."

This was a most exclusive club, restricted solely to women. No dinosaurs or pterodactyls were admitted to membership.

The association was made up of female reporters accredited to cover Mrs. Roosevelt at her press conferences. Non-members were barred from the interesting and often bizarre sessions with the First Lady.

The dolls were very jealous of their prerogatives. Only twice in the 12 years that Mrs. Roosevelt was in the White House did they lower the gates and let male reporters in. And even on those occasions—as many of us well remember—they did their best to make us feel unwelcome.

In fact, they labored overtime to make us feel like inept interlopers. They stood around sneering at our faltering attempts to interview the First Lady, as if saying:

"See how it is, Dopes? This is a woman's work. Man's place is in the home—not lousing up the newspaper business!"

THE ORGANIZATION is now defunct. It expired last week when the new First Lady declared, firmly, she would not hold press conferences like her predecessor.

The dame reporters tried to induce Mrs. Truman to continue the practice but she remained deaf to all arguments and entreaties. Mrs. Truman said she might have the newspappergirls in for tea now and then but that all they'd get from her would be tea.

The lady reporters hated to see the association die for two reasons:

(1) Mrs. Roosevelt frequently came through with important news;

(2) The fact that they alone could interview the First Lady gave them increased stature in their profession.

They could—and did—figuratively stick out their tongues at us abashed males, flip their skirts, and jeer:

"Yah! Yah! Yah!—can't get in to see Mrs. Roosevelt, ya big smarty-cats, ya!"

BECAUSE it added so greatly to their prestige, the girls fought to the last ditch to keep the thing going. And foremost in the fight was the pretty and charming Miss Ruth Montgomery.

Miss Montgomery was president of Mrs. Roosevelt's Press Conference Association. Both professionally and socially she was as close to Mrs. Roosevelt as any reporter in the country.

And now, if you will just roll over, Dr. Dixon, the distinguished quack, will give you a big injection of irony—

By whom do you think the lovely Miss Montgomery is employed?

John O'Donnell of Capt. Joseph Medill Patterson's New York News—the most furious and implacable Roosevelt critic in America!

Fighting Doughboys Coming Home En Route to Tokyo

WASHINGTON, May 2 (INS)—Most of the Doughs who have been slugging it out on the ground in Europe are going to get a furlough home before they start for Tokyo.

This fact was revealed exclusively to International News Service today.

Revised plans will not affect Army service forces, who must build up the facilities and bases whence final blows will be struck against Japan. Nor does it apply to the Army Air Forces ground troops who also must build up Pacific bases.

It does apply to the infantry, artillery and armored forces.

For the time being, it is reasoned, there is not enough ground space within striking distance of Japan to amass millions of men. The most immediate problem, following peace in Europe, will be to send seeds, agricultural supplies and foodstuffs to devastated areas.

These supply ships might as well return with soldiers.

Only troops of the 15th Army will remain in Europe as the Army of Occupation.

Federal Men Raid Speakeasy

Staging their first New England raid on an after-hours speakeasy since the wartime midnight curfew, federal agents surrounded a lavishly furnished basement night club in Broadway, Revere, early today, nabbed the owner, bartender, and a spotter, and held 30 young couples, including several servicemen, for questioning.

The trio and an employe of another resort next door face arraignment in Federal Court tomorrow on charges of selling liquor from bottles which bore no government tax stamp. Six bottles of untaxed liquor and 63 bottles of ale were seized.

Raiders had spotted the place for three weeks and moved in without the knowledge of Revere police. Commenting on the raid, Police Chief Edward Tighe of Revere said today:

R. H. White Hub Sales 13 Million in Year

Total sales of the R. H. White Co. in Boston for the year ending last Jan. 31 amounted to $13,280,415, according to the annual report of City Stores Co. to its stockholders today.

The company, which operates stores in Philadelphia, New Orleans, Memphis and Louisville in addition to the White store in Boston, reported a record volume of $76,721,832 in sales for the year, an increase of 13 per cent over the total of the preceding year. The volume of sales also was approximately 70 per cent above the 1941 total.

Happy Day!

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2 (AP)—V. E. Day, who lives on the North Side, says he's getting a lot of telephone calls these days.

The most recent came from a whimsical lady who said:

"Is this V. E. Day? If so, you've made a lot of people happy."

'Enchanted Cottage' at Keith's

By PEGGY DOYLE

"The Enchanted Cottage," Pinero's famous young-old play in which Richard Barthelmess and May McAvoy scored a great success on the silent screen 21 years ago, has the freshness and awareness of a script suggested by immediate events.

Given a modernized treatment by writers DeWitt Bodeen and Herman J. Mankiewicz, sensitive direction by John Cromwell, superlative performances by Dorothey Maguire, Robert Young, Herbert Marshall and Mildred Natwick and a fine production by Hariett Parsons, this RKO Radio release is rarely impressive in a season of distinguished films.

There is inspiration and strength in its tender story of a disfigured Air Corps officer and a plain but timidly understanding girl who find love. In the glow of their love, his poor, distorted face assumes for her the attractiveness of their first meeting and she, whom he has been drawn to because of the beauty of her soul and despite her ugliness, becomes ethereally lovely before his eyes.

The cruelty of disillusionment, when the flier's flibberty-gibbet mother and didactic stepfather clumsily set them straight, and the realization that nothing or no one can shatter the beauty they have discovered in each other and their all-enduring love are handled with rare restraint and understanding.

As the girl, Miss McGuire surpasses her "Tree Grows in Brooklyn" performance. Her range from the stolid, planty house-maid to the radiant, beloved bride goes infinitely deeper than makeup and stacks her right up there with the best of the screen's bright, young stars.

Young, too, handles a demanding characterization with touching sincerity and warmth. Magnificent is the word for Herbert Marshall's blind composer-pianist whose own handicap has given him an insight and a humanity that bridge the most difficult moments for the young couple.

Mildred Natwick, who has given up her madhatter seancing in the footlighted "Blithe Spirit" to play the housekeeper of the story's enchanted cottage, gives another of her pricelessly fey portrayals. She, as definitely as the dead-and-gone tenants of the ancient honeymoon cottage give "The Enchanted Cottage" an atmosphere of anything-can-happen and extraordinary distinction.

Fashion

WHITE HANDBAGS will be both functional and fashionable this season . . . as cool, crisp and dramatic accent to after-five clothes . . . and as foil for soft cottons and summer suits. Take another look at this Jenny bag . . . it is not leather . . . but fashioned of a wonderful new white plastic that looks enough like leather to defy the closest scrutiny . . . and it washes and won't split . . . think of it. White . . . you know . . . is summer's top accessory accent.—R. M.

An Unclean Face Is a Neglected One

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

THIS BEING AMERICAN BABY WEEK . . . it wouldn't do us grown-up babies an iota of hurt if we emulated the little cherub . . . whose young beauty is guarded with zealous tenderness and devotion. Her Majesty's comfort and beauty is formulated with strict attention to a common sense routine. She is oiled and greased and protected like a choice bit of the most intricate machinery from the time she lets out a peep until she is able to care for herself.

And, when she can care for herself, does she? Do you? Does your growing daughter watch her face and her diet? There wouldn't be any need for our persistent reminding if you and you and you took the matter of personal loveliness as a responsibility unto yourself . . . as you should . . . and as you should encourage for your image, child or adolescent.

We sterilize baby's bottles with extreme care lest that bugaboo bacteria lodge its nasty sperm . . . but as grown-up babies do we sterilize our faces? Do we guard it against the superficial infections caused by lack of sleep, lack of sunlight . . . lack of proper foods . . . and lack of proper cosmetic care? A sterilized face is a complexion which holds no fertile rooting ground for such peskies as blackheads and pimples and enlarged pores. It is a lovely expanse of billowy smoothness and softness . . . like the clouds or the heaped up egg white. Take a long look at the pictured baby. Isn't she a darling? Aren't you jealous?

An untidy house is a neglected house. An unclean, unwholesome, sallow-looking, bumpy face is a neglected one. No gal can achieve facial attractiveness without care . . . for even those born with beauty must care for it to maintain and preserve it.

One of the most interesting treatments we know of . . . for young and adult alike . . . is a scrub-team duet . . . a special type of modern cleanser made under the close supervision of a well-known dermatologist . . . the acme in good common sense for a radiant complexion. It consists of a jar of clean, white facial soap cream . . . that's half soap and half cream . . .

For the name of this spring facial enlivener, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

EVEN BABY has a beauty routine . . . when doting mama pats her all over with a baby lotion containing lanolin with an antiseptic ingredient added for greater protection. This technique helps keep baby's skin rose petal soft in spite of sun and wind exposure. Why not try a grown-up baby's routine for similar complexion loveliness that is the yearning desire of every gal.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—I know others must feel, as I do, the tenseness of waiting for some further news of the final end of the war in Europe. That brief moment when we thought that the Nazis had actually surrendered made me realize what a relief it will be when we can feel that only the ordinary accidents of life surround our men in the European theater.

As more and more people are liberated from prisons and concentration camps, I keep wondering if their return will not mean a great awakening among us to the realization of the full horror of war.

Who could make it more clear than a boy who had been in one of these camps

I HOPE WE are not going to be too easy with ourselves. It would be pleasant to close our eyes and ears now and say: "These things could never be, Human beings could not do such things, and therefore we will not believe them or listen to them."

That would be an easy way out because we would not have to decide how we could prevent any recurrence in the future, in any part of the world, of the Fascism which brought these things about.

We have been much more concerned in this country about the people among us who might be Communists.

But we should give more thought than we have given in the past to the dangers of the Fascist theories. Judging by the results as we see them in the concentration camps in Europe, they affect the nature and the souls of all human beings who fall under their domination.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON Miss Thompson and I came down to Washington. She had no time to close her apartment here, and there were a number of things that I had not managed to finish.

It was a curious sensation coming into this city again, and I think it will probably take me a little while before I approach it as a casual visitor.

Name for Club

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: We are a group of six girls, and we have just formed a club. We haven't been able to decide on a name for it, although we've had a lot of discussion about it, and so we're coming to you to ask you if you would please suggest a name for our club. S. E. C.

What's the idea, the reason, for your club? Is it merely a social club, or have you some special work or activity in mind? The best name for a club is, I think, the name that best suggests its reason-for-being.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just received an invitation stating that my friend is announcing her engagement at a tea. Will you please tell me if it is proper for me to bring a gift to the tea? D. S.

It is proper for you to take a gift if you wish. But engagement gifts aren't considered "required gifts."

Printed Jackets in Lead

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SEPARATE and suit jackets made of printed materials, crepes, ginghams, cottons and such are leading items in town styles to wear in warm weather. They are the least burdensome of wraps you can find, and they look good. You can wear such a jacket with a skirt and waist, and you can also wear it over a one-piece dress just as you like.

One very smart printed crepe jacket is from Anthony Blotta, who has made his famous Diplomat coat into a midsummer item by using black and white printed crepe for its fabric.

Mr. Blotta combines it with a black skirt and a blouse of the same printed crepe as the jacket.

An Appealing Breakfast

EVEN HEARTY APPETITES find breakfast losing its customary appeal if the menu slips into a wearisome groove. But you can sell this important first meal of the day to indifferent appetites with food that is fresh, fragrant, and daintily appetizing.

Well-poached eggs perched atop brown toast and flanked by crisp bacon are a short and easy route to selling the breakfast meal. Rusks are an occasional welcome departure from toast and give the plate a dressy look.

If you haven't been satisfied with your poached eggs, you'll appreciate these specific directions.

POACHED EGGS ON RUSK

Use a pan to give 1½ to 2-inch layer of water over the eggs. Use plain water, unsalted or "unvinegared." Salt does not improve the appearance, and vinegar ruins the flavor for most people. Bring water to a good boil, then reduce heat and keep it at simmering temperature. Break eggs one at a time into a cup. Bring the cup down to the water, then tip over quickly so that egg slips out as a unit. Hold eggs 5 to 12 minutes according to firmness desired. Remove eggs with a skimmer, pancake turner or large spoon. If the utensil is not perforated to allow quick drainage, slip the egg onto a folded paper towel or napkin for a moment.

Large eggs may not be as plentiful as usual this year, because several million dozen of this size are needed for the armed forces overseas.

Here are some other ways of serving eggs that will make breakfast a more satisfying meal:

EGGS EN COCOTTE

3 eggs 3 tbsp. cream
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
Pepper and salt

Take individual ramekin for each serving. Put a little of the butter or margarine in the bottom of each, melt, sprinkle with a little pepper and salt, break an egg into each, sprinkle the top with a little more pepper and salt. Pour cream over each egg. Cook in a slow oven (325 deg. F.) 10 minutes, until the egg is set.

BREAD CRUMB OMELET

4 eggs, separated ¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper ¼ cup milk
½ cup soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
1 tbsp. fat

Add pepper to yolks, beat slightly. Add crumbs and milk. Add salt to whites and beat until stiff, but not dry. Fold crumbs and yolk mixture into whites. Heat fat moderately hot in a skillet (approx. 9 x 3-inch), pour in omelet mixture. Level surface gently. Place a cover on skillet and cook over sufficiently low heat so that bottom is only lightly browned after 15 minutes of cooking. Cook about 20 to 25 minutes until the surface is dry (touch lightly with finger tip) and knife inserted in center comes out clean. Fold and serve on warm platter. Serve plain or with tomato sauce. Makes 4 servings.

FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs, well beaten
½ tsp. salt 1 tbsp. sugar
¼ cup milk 6 slices bread

Beat eggs slightly; add salt, sugar and milk. Pour into a shallow dish; then dip each slice of bread into it, turning it so that both sides are well soaked. Brown on both sides in hot fat or salad oil in a skillet. Makes 6 slices French toast. Serve hot with butter and maple syrup, molasses, jelly, honey or applesauce.

Sen. O'Mahoney Sees Sox Win; Lauds Truman

By JACK CONWAY

SENATOR JOSEPH C. O'MAHONEY of Wyoming braved a cold east wind to watch the Red Sox win from the Senators at Fenway Park. Senator O'Mahoney was in a box near the Senator's bench and he had as his guests State Insurance Commissioner Charles F. J. Harrington of Watertown, the latter's son, Bill, Edward C. Stone, Employers Group executive, and this writer.

"I like baseball even though I only have few opportunities to attend games in Washington," said the Senator.

Sen. O'Mahoney

C u lberson's hitting won the admiration of O'Ma h o n e y who rooted for the Sox outfielder to get his fourth double in a row. C u l b e r s o n, however, had to be satisfied with three doubles which is a pretty fair effort for one afternoon.

Senator O'Mahoney expressed interest in Dave Ferriss, six foot two right-handed pitcher, who blanked the Athletics on Sunday, making three hits himself.

"Ferriss has always been a good Boston baseball name," declared Senator O'Mahoney as he recalled the baseball deeds of Hobe Ferris who played second base for the Red Sox back in the days of Jimmy Collins, Candy LaChance, Freddy Parent, Chick Stahl and other stars.

"Boston was my home then," said Senator O'Mahoney, "and, of course, I was a Red Sox fan."

Senator O'Mahoney spoke of his friend, Senator A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky who has been named High Commissioner of baseball.

"Senator Chandler told me he would not take the job unless he got as much power to govern baseball as Judge Landis had," asserted Senator O'Mahoney. "Senator Chandler has a great love for baseball and he should do well as its High Commissioner."

Praises President

FEW PERSONS know President Truman better than does Senator O'Mahoney. They served in the Senate together and both were members of the important Senate Military Affairs Committee.

"President Truman has his feet on the ground and he will make a good president," declared Senator O'Mahoney. "He can work with other people.

"The country has shown its great confidence in President Truman.

"The President came to Congress and he talked with Senators of the different parties. He made a fine impression with all of us."

I asked Senator O'Mahoney if those in high places in Washington had been prepared for the late President Roosevelt's sudden death.

"No," he replied. "The late President's death was a severe shock to all of us. While we knew his health was not of the best, he possessed such marvelous recuperative powers we felt he would win back his strength quickly.

"The night before the President died, I was giving a speech in Washington and I asked a member of the White House personnel about the President's health. I was told that the person had talked with the President that day and that the President was well.

"I was told that the old story of the President not being in good health was going the rounds again, but I had not heard it I said.

"As a U. S. Senator, I often get very tired from the amount of work it is necessary for me to do. The President of the United States has many more things to do. I appreciate fully the great strain that is always on whoever is president."

Meets Jim Farley

EARLIER IN the day Sen. O'Mahoney, a party of friends and this writer had luncheon at the Copley-Plaza. Passing through the lobby Sen. O'Mahoney met James A. Farley. Sen. O'Mahoney at one time was first assistant to Farley when the latter was postmaster general. The two men greeted each other warmly.

Farley said he had read with interest this writer's story about Jimmy Johnston.

George Hansen, president of Chandler & Co., also greeted Farley.

Sen. O'Mahoney was pleased with the progress of the war news in Europe. He was particularly interested in reports the Germans were withdrawing from Norway.

"That would help speed up the war," he said.

I asked Sen. O'Mahoney what he thought of the war in the Pacific.

"We have scored many successes in the Pacific," he said, "but we still must defeat the main Japanese army of 4,500,000 men.

Sen. O'Mahoney spoke at the insurance executives' dinner last night. He had reservations to return to Washington today.

Edward C. Stone told me that people of both political parties will work 100 per cent with President Truman.

I recalled Joseph P. Kennedy's statement to the effect President Truman's success will be the success of every American, while his failure would be the failure of all of us.

"That sizes it up perfectly," said Stone, "and we want it to be a success story."

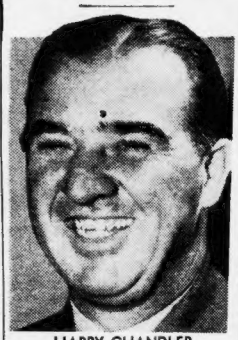
Chandler Asks Truman For Draft Probe



HAPPY CHANDLER
He Tells President

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 2 (AP)—Baseball's Commissioner-elect Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler, is ready to fight for the right of 4-F ball players to play baseball. "Just because a man's able to play two hours of a certain sport is no indication that he is fit for military service," the Kentucky senator said in an interview.

"I believe a 4-F is a 4IF regardless of what his profession might be. Merely because a man is a baseball player and a 4-F doesn't mean his draft board should reclassify him and put him into the service."

Chandler said he had heard of cases where just such things had happened.

"I have informed the President of the United States, my friend Harry Truman, that there have been these instances of discrimination against ballplayers by Selective Service officials and have asked that they be investigated."

The commissioner-elect used his press conference yesterday to clarify his stand on horse racing as it concerns baseball.

He advised players and umpires to stay away from the race tracks to avoid possible public censure, but at the same time said he saw no reason to attach a stigma to racing or to men connected with it.

"I attend the Kentucky Derby every year when possible," the Senator said, "and I will feel free to continue to do so. I am not going to try to be a dictator and I think a person can be interested in horse racing without being a menace to baseball."

Chandler added that he had very little interest in racing personally except for the Derby which he said he considered a rather special sporting event.

Nats' Binks Proves 'Experts' All Wrong

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Binks is a banjo hitter. If it weren't for his leg speed he wouldn't hit .200. Binks can't hit a curve; Binks can't pull a ball; hits only to left field. That's all we heard while the Braves were playing the Senators in their preseason exhibition games.

And what do we find when the Sox come home to win their fourth straight, beating the Solons 5-4? Nothing else but George Binks batting in all four runs and whistling the ball to right-field like the best pull hitter in the league.

Case walks and steals in the first inning, and Binks brings him home with a single to center. Myatt reached on an error in the sixth and steals second. Binks chauffeurs him home with a double to RIGHT. Can't pull, my eye!

Myatt and Kuhel walk with one out in the eighth, and Binks singles to RIGHT. Can't pull my eye!

A bunch of the Red Sox were whooping it up in the Hotel Commodore before they opened the season with the Yanks. They were graduates of Louisville, and they knew Binks well; played against him all ot 1944 in the American Ass'n.

"He's a Cardinal ball player," they said. "Hits infield bounders and beats them out. Never hit a ball solidly in his life."

Binks never played with the Cards. He's a Chicago boy who was picked up by Cleveland. A few years back he played for Cedar Rapids in the Three-I League; led the league in batting with .345 and in runs batted in with 119.

Does that make him a banjo hitter?

Casey Stengel, whose judgment the Yankees admire so much—they appointed him manager at his native Kansas City this season—bought him for his Milwaukee club. And Casey knew what he was getting. The old Braves' comedian won the pennant with his Brewers last year, and thereon were Heinz Becker, Nagel and Pete Secorey of the Cubs, Pack of the A's, Culler and Nelson of the Braves, Pruett of the A's.

"Everyone on the club went up to the big leagues," said Binks. And it seems that everyone on that Milwaukee club is making good in the big leagues.

Culberson Out Of Sox Lineup

FENWAY PARK, May 2—Leon Culberson, Sox center fielder, came up with a leg injury today, and Tom McBride was in his post when the Sox faced the Senators in the second and final game of the series at Fenway Park.

Catcher Bob Garbark, hurt yesterday, also was missing from the Sox lineup. His injured finger gave Fred Walters a chance to catch his old Louisville battery mate, Jim Wilson.

FIRST INNING

SENATORS—Case walked. Myatt forced Case, Steiner to Newsome. Kuhel singled. Binks struck out. Layne flied to Johnson. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Newsome singled. Steiner struck out. Metkovich fouled to Layne. Johnson popped to Torres. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

SEIATORS—Torres popped to Steinr. Chipple popped to Newsome. Guerra flied to McBride. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Fox walked. Tobin forced Fox, Torres to Myatt. McBride flied to Chipple and Tobin was doubled, Chipple to Kuhel to Torres. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

SENATORS — Steiner threw out Haefner. Case fouled to Metkovich. Steiner tossed out Myatt. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Walters fouled to Layne. Wilson doubled to center. Newsome popped to Torres. Steiner fouled to Kuhel. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

SENATORS—Newsome threw out Kuhel. Binks struck out and Walters threw to first for the out. Layne struck out. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Torres threw out Metkovich. Johnson was safe when Case dropped his fly and Johnson was out trying for second, Case to Myatt. Fox fouled to Kuhel. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING

SENATORS—Torres flied to Fox. Chipple flied to McBride. Guerra fouled to Walters. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Tobin singled. McBride forced Tobin, Layne to Myatt. Walters flied to Case. Haefner threw out Wilson. NO RUNS.

Arena With Roof Held Up by Air For Baltimore!?

BALTIMORE, May 2 (AP)—Construction of an enclosed 100,000 capacity municipal stadium—the roof to be held up by air pressure—may be Baltimore's bid to crash the year-around athletic big time.

The idea—without estimate of cost—has been presented city officials as the "final report" of a stadium committee appointed last year after the International League ball park burned down and the Orioles moved into the present spacious but outmoded municipal stadium.

And about that roof—designed by Glenn L. Martin, the aircraft builder, and Jan Porel, his assistant:

Made of thin metal, it could be "pumped up" mechanically from its original construction position of 20 feet above the heads of spectators to its maximum height in about an hour and a half, yet would take a month to descend to low level even with windows and doors open. It would be periodically pumped up and then gradually sink until the next pumping job.

Giants' Protest on B's Tilt Disallowed

By BILL GRIMES

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 2—"Unless we get to play more frequently," declared Bob Coleman this morning, "I'll have to dig up places for the boys to work out indoors."

The Braves were rained out of three games at home last week, Monday was an open date and they were washed out again yesterday. So, instead of playing seven games in the past week, as the schedule called for, they've been in only three engagements, including a Sunday double-header.

"After the siege of bad weather we had at home," continued Coleman. "I figured on seeing some sunshine down here. But, the weatherman crossed me up.

"There must be a jinx on this club. First we lost Tommy Nelson, who reported with a bad arm. Then Frankie Drews is injured when Javery fell on his leg. Finally, we get home for the intra-city series and bang, bang, Whitey and Eddie Joost are on the hospital list, but, with four infielders out of action, the jinx still stayed with us. And, he grabbed another victim, Norman Wallen, who had been brought up from Indianapolis as a replacement.

"I thought that the pitchers who were at Georgetown University, were in pretty good condtion. I was worried about Javery and Andrews for a while, but their arm ailments cleared up. However, neither of them impressed me in his first start against the Giants in the opening series. Then, after a 12-week layoff, Javery turned in a fine performance against Phillies. To my way of thinking, the best part of Jave's exhibition last Sunday was that he had more stuff in the late innings than he had at the start of the game."

Manager Coleman is not a moaner. But, apparently, the tough breaks he has encountered are getting under his skin. He's been worried over his pitching corps, which because of postponed games he has not been able to rotate, and, unless they are worked in regular turns, pitchers lose their effectiveness.

Nate Andrews was to have pitched yesterday. He was to be Coleman's selection today at Ebbets Field.

During the 11 games they've played this season the Braves have used no less than six infield combinations. The seventh was in action today, when Chuck Workman went to third and Whitey Wietelmann to second.

It is impossible to develop a smooth working inner defense when the personnel is changing almost daily. Yet, the Braves have met with enough success to have moved into the first division after starting the season with three straight defeats at the hands of the Giants. Then, too, the absence of Eddie Joost and Tom Nelson, both of whom are good hitters, has deprived the club of a goodly portion of its offensive punch.

Manager Leo "Lippy" Durocher was to send Vic Loombardi to the mound this afternoon. Lombardi, a southpaw, was recently discharged from the Army and is a product of the California sand lots.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, May 2—Ford Frick, National League head, today disallowed a protest made by the Giants on the afternoon game at Braves Field, which the B's won, 13 to 5. Mel Ott of the Jints based his protest on a reversal by Umpire George Magerkurth of a decision made by Bill Stewart after a strike had been called on the next batter.

Braves Score 2 In 1st on Bums

BROOKLYN. May 2—With Nate Andrews making his third start of the season, the Braves opened an abbreviated two-game series with the Dodgers here today.

Vic Lombardi, a diminutive lefthander, was Durocher's starting pitcher.

Chuck Workman was at third for the Braves and Butch Nieman and Tommy Holmes exchanged fields, the former going to left and the other to right.

FIRST INNING

BRAVES — Culler walked. Holmes doubled, scoring Culled. Nieman walked. Mack sacrificed, Galan to Stanky. Gillenwater was purposely passed filling the bases. Workman flied to Walker, Holmes scoring after the catch. Kluttz forced Nieman, Hart unassisted. TWO RUNS.

DODGERS — Stanky doubled. Rosen walked. Galan hit to first and was out, Kluttz to Mack, Stanky and Rosen advancing. Walker grounded to Mack, Stanky scoring and Rosen moving to third. Olmo fouled to Mack. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING

BRAVES—Lombardi threw out Wietelmann. Andrews was called out on strikes. Hart threw out Culler. NO RUNS.

DODGERS — Culler threw out Hart. Owen doubled. Workman threw out Basinski. Lombardi fanned. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

BRAVES—Holmes flied to Walker. Nieman walked. Mack walked. Gillenwater struck out and Nieman was doubled at third, Owen to Hart. NO RUNS.

DODGERS—Wietelmann threw out Stanky. Rosen looked at third strike. Galan fouled to Kluttz. NO RUNS.

Nova May Find Eagle Rugged

By BILL SMITH

Charley Eagle, New England heavyweight champion, will not be lacking for rooters when he climbs through the ropes for his 10-round fight with Lou Nova at Mechanics Building tomorrow night in the feature attraction of the Callahan A. C. show.

The 25-year-old Pole should feel right at home because a large delegation of Waterbury, Ct., fans will be at the ringside to cheer him on against the veteran Nova.

Opportunity knocked at Eagle's door when his scheduled fight with Tami Mauriello was cancelled and he was called upon to replace George Millich as Nova's opponent.

Iron-man Earle Lowman and Henry Jones of Philadelphia are scheduled to meet in the eight-round semi - final. Lowman dropped a split verdict to Ed Wagner after forcing the fight in a recent clash.

In another eight-rounder, Lepp Webster, Camp Devens, meets the Red Doty of Hartford. Dula Kovach who has been training steadily with Charley Eagle, tangles with Schoolboy Jerry Berthiaume of Montreal in a six.

Two other six-stanza affairs complete the card and they include; Johnny Weatherspoon, Camp Devens, against Tony Petro, Hartford; and Archie Gibbons, also of Hartford, facing Izzy Manor of Camp McKay.

Wilson Applies for 60 Days at Downs

By DAVE WILSON

Allan J. Wilson, president of the Eastern Racing Ass'n which owns and operates Suffolk Downs, yesterday filed a formal request with the Massachusetts Racing Commission for permission to conduct 60 days of racing at the East Boston track.

In his written request to Louis Hoffmann, chairman of the Massachusetts Racing Commission, Wilson asked that Suffolk Downs be granted 60 days of racing sometime between May 14 and Oct. 31.

Allan Wilson

Wilson, in making his request for 60 racing days, left it up to the Massachusetts Racing Commission to decide specific dates. Under this arrangement, the commission will also have the power to decide whether Suffolk Downs shall have one or two meetings.

In the past few years, Suffolk Downs has used its dates in one meeting.

Wilson's request for dates is the second to come from Suffolk Downs this year. The original request, filed by Gordon B. Hanlon, was tabled last January when the current ban on racing went into effect.

Under Massachusetts law, the state racing commission must advertise and hold a public hearing before it has the power to grant dates.

Racing at Suffolk Downs, or other major tracks in this state isn't permitted between August 15 and October 1, the time allowed to state fairs which also conduct horse racing.

Arthur Warner, the well-known trainer, is conditioning the D. F. Harrington stable at Narragansett Park. Leichester is the best-known horse in the string.

Following the ban on racing last winter, Warner was commissioned to sell the Four Oaks Farm's Checkerhall and Transbest for $7500, but was unable to find a buyer.

Checkerhall then moved on to Mexico City where he has won five straight races. In his last start, the son of Hairan won eased up by 10 lengths and equalled Gay Dalton's track mark of 1:43 2-5 for one mile and a sixteenth.

Folks down Mexico way are "high" on Checkerhall and they rate the son of Hairan as strictly the horse to beat in the Kentucky Derby.

Mrs. Irving Gushen, wife of the New York sportsman, has joined the ranks of thoroughbred owners, and she has elected coral and gold for her colors. At present, Mrs. Gushen's stable consists only of the non-starter Nimrod.

However, Mrs. Gushen is keeping a weather eye peeled on her well-known husband's string in hopes that she may be able to spot another thoroughbred worthy of wearing her silks.

The Gushen horses are stabled at Narragansett, and they are trained by Herby Fisher, the ex-jockey who was astride Head Play in the Kentucky Derby won by Broker's Tip.

Dick Kolseth, who at one time played first base for Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles, is conditioning a large string of horses at Narragansett.

Bartolo Sees Win

Sal Bartolo, NBA featherweight champion who will clash with Gus Mell of Montreal in a return bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden on Friday night, believes he will score a decisive victory.

"I have not been popping off with attacks on decisions since I have been in the boxing game," said Sal, "but I do think I had the edge on Mell in our last bout. My margin was not a large one, and so I will not stress the matter now.

"I do think, that despite a wound over my right eye, I proved I can lick Mell. I shall be at my best physically on Friday night and I believe I shall win the unanimous decision.

"I recognize the fact Mell is a terrific puncher, but he is not my equal as a boxer. I can beat him at long range and also in close up fighting. In order for Mell to look good, he must score with his left wallop.

"I don't underrate Mell's hitting power. He is likely to knock out anyone he can hit with his best Sunday punch. With my speed and skill, I don't think Mell is going to tag me."

Hurler Goodwin Milton Diamond Spark

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Its been too long—at least since 1936—between soft drinks of championship baseball for Milton High School, but Coach Bob Osborne, syping the mound trickery of his ace right-hander, Everett Goodwin, feels that there's a possibility that his club will be in the race for a berth right down to the final wire.

Milton sailed into the title play previously on the slants of another twirler, Connie O'Leary, and hopes are high that Goodwin's duke will repeat this performance.

This young, Red Sox farmhand, standing 5:11 and weighing 175 pounds, spent a year at the big leaguers coaching school last year and this primping was just what was needed to allow Goodwin to take his place with the top-notchers in school ranks. For two previous seasons, he had lacked the necessary confidence to go with his natural ability. He has that now and that's why Coach Osborne feels that Milton will do some winning this spring.

In the opening game, Goodwin blanked Hingham for five innings but then moved out to right field in order to keep his batting punch in the line-up. Milton ran into mound difficulties when Hingham started to tee off so Goodwin was recalled to quell the uprising. Which he did with the coolness of a veteran "fireman."

"If we have any batting behind Goodwin, we'll be a mighty hard team to beat," declared Coach Osborne as he prepared his club to meet Milton Academy for the town championship today.

Goodwin has a tremendous target to fire his speed ball at in catcher Dick Finn, 185-pound veteran of three years. And behind Finn, Coach Osborne has swell reserve material in Jimmy Montgomery and Art Gordon, who has been moved out to third base on a temporary basis. It's still possible that Gordon will move to the outfield to make way for Ed Sullivan at the hot corner. Sullivan has been coming along in leaps and bounds.

Goodwin's pitching mates will be southpaw Dow Morgan, Herb Lawrence, who saw some service last year, and a pair of juniors who show plenty of promise in Dick Whitham and Dave Gushee, both right-handers.

Milton's infield will have Dick Lamere at first; John McGonigle at second, and Ed Ferrante at short. The outfield is still unsettled, especially with the return of a pair of cripples, Fred Harrington (broken leg) and Charlie Coutts (appendectomy). They'll have to oust either Bob Payne or Paul Woods from starting berths, although Coutts may confine himself to pitching chores.

Yanks in Munich

Infantry-laden trucks of the U. S. Seventh Army pause briefly on a main street of Munich, birthplace of Nazism, awaiting orders to move into the heart of the bombed and shell-wracked city. These troops have reached Innsbruck, near the Brenner Pass, today.

INP Radioed from Munich
